(7) If, in the opinion of the Electoral Commission, on the advice of the Supervisor, the number of polling stations which cannot and will not open or at which polling is adjourned due to force majeure, is a significantly high number such that the adjournment of the entire election is warranted, the Supervisor shall immediately make a public announcement of the adjournment of the election and publish a notice to that effect in the Gazette and in all national daily newspapers and broadcast on radio and free-to-air television.

(8) If the Electoral Commission adjourns the entire election under subsection (7), it shall, when feasible and in consultation with the Supervisor, determine another date for the election and at such time make a public announcement to inform the public of the new date for the election and publish a notice to that effect in the Gazette and in all national daily newspapers and broadcast on radio and free-to-air television.

(9) If the election continues as planned despite the non-commencement or adjournment at one or more polling stations under subsections (3) or (5), the polling for those affected polling stations shall, if possible, be held on the day after the election (for the same hours the election was held on polling day), and if polling is not feasible the next day, the election shall be held on the second day after the polling day and if not feasible that day then on the third day after the polling day or soon thereafter.

(4) If a registered voter has since the compilation of the Register of Voters or voter list changed his or her name by marriage or deed poll, he or she is not disqualified from voting under the name appearing in the register, provided he or she can provide sufficient proof to the presiding officer that he or she is in the Register of Voters or voter list.

Publication of provisional results

102A. The Supervisor must continuously publish provisional results for candidates and political parties on receipt of the first protocol of results from the presiding officers until 7 am on the day after polling day.

(8) In any case where the lowest of the quotients required to be ascertained under subsection (7) constitutes 2 or more quotients in different columns which are of exactly the same value, the Electoral Commission must determine by lot which of these quotients is to be selected for the purpose of subsection (7).

(9) The Electoral Commission must cause a circle to be drawn on the Candidate Allocation Form around the highest quotients equal to the total number of seats being contested in the election.

PART 5—COURT OF DISPUTED RETURNS

Filing and serving of petition

120.—(1) A petition must be presented by filing it in the Court registry at Suva.

(2) A petition must be served in the way in which a writ of summons is served or in such other manner as is prescribed by the rules of the Court.

Respondent to petition

121. The member whose election or return is complained of must be the respondent to the petition, and if the petition complains of the conduct of the Supervisor, then the Supervisor must also be a respondent.

Requisites of petition

122. Every petition must—

- (a) set out the facts relied on to invalidate the election or return;
- (b) set out those facts with sufficient particularity to identify the specific matter or matters on which the petitioner relies as justifying the grant of relief;
- (c) contain a prayer asking for the relief the petitioner claims to be entitled to, including, but not limited to—
 - (i) request for a recount of ballot papers in one or more polling stations or a recount of all ballot papers in the election;
 - (ii) request for the invalidation of the protocol of results in one or more polling stations, invalidation of the election of one or more candidates, or invalidation of the entire election; and
 - (iii) request for repeat polling in one or more polling stations or request for a repeat election;
- (d) be signed by the petitioner, except in the case of a petition filed by the Attorney-General under section 124 of this Act or section 66 of the Constitution; and

No fees, deposit or security for costs

Intervention by Attorney-General or Supervisor

124.—(1) The Attorney-General may file a petition disputing an election or return.

(2) A petition referred to in subsection (1) must be signed by the Solicitor-General for and on behalf of the Attorney-General.

(3) The Attorney-General or the Supervisor may—

- (a) intervene and enter an appearance in any proceeding in which the validity of any election or return is disputed; or
- (b) be represented and heard on any such intervention, in which case he or she shall be a respondent to the petition.

No proceedings unless requirements complied with 125.—(1) Subject to this Act, proceedings must not be had on a petition unless the requirements of sections 120 and 122 are complied with.

(2) The Court may, at any time after the filing of a petition and on such terms (if any) as it thinks fit, relieve the petitioner wholly or in part from compliance with section 122(b).

(3) The Court must not grant relief under subsection (2) unless it is satisfied that—

- (a) in spite of the failure of a petition to comply with section 122(b), the petition sufficiently identifies the specific matters on which the petitioner relies; and
- (b) the grant of relief would not unreasonably prejudice the interests of another party to the petition.

Powers of the Court

126.—(1) The Court must sit as an open court and its powers include the following to—

- (a) order the Supervisor to recount the ballot papers of one or more polling stations;
- (b) declare invalid the results in one or more polling stations;

- (j) grant to a party to the petition leave to inspect, in the presence of the Supervisor or an officer of the Court, the registers and other documents used at or in connection with any election and to take, in the presence of the Supervisor or the officer of the Court, extracts from those registers and documents;
- (k) examine witnesses on oath; and
- (l) punish any contempt of its authority by fine or imprisonment.

(2) If more than one petition is presented relating to the same election or return, the Court may direct that all those petitions be dealt with as one petition.

(3) Where a petitioner withdraws, or applies to withdraw from proceedings on a petition, the Court may permit any other person who was entitled to present the same petition but chose not to do so to be substituted for the petitioner who withdraws.

(4) Where a sole petitioner, or the sole survivor of several petitioners, dies, the Court may treat the petition as abated and take no further action on it, unless the Attorney-General or the Supervisor or both have intervened under section 124 and one or the other wishes the proceedings or the petition to be heard.

Evidence that a person is not permitted to vote

127.—(1) On the trial of a petition the Court must not admit the evidence of a witness that the witness was not permitted to vote in any election unless the witness satisfies the Court that—

- (a) the witness claimed to vote in the election pursuant to a provision of the Constitution or this Act under which he or she was entitled to vote; and
- (b) the witness complied with the requirements of the Constitution and this Act relating to voting by voters so far as he or she was permitted to do so.

(2) If any voter, on account of the absence or error of, or omission by, an election official, is prevented from voting in an election, the Court must not, for the purpose of determining whether the absence or error of, or omission by, the election official did or did not affect the result of the election, admit any evidence of the way in which the voter intended to vote in the election.

Irregularities not to invalidate election

128.—(1) An election or the results from any polling station may not be declared invalid and the Court may not declare that any person, who is returned as elected, is not duly elected on the grounds of a failure to comply with this Act if the Court is satisfied that the failure did not affect the result of the election, and that the election was conducted in a manner substantially in accordance with the requirements of the Constitution and this Act.

(2) Without limiting the effect of subsection (1), an election or the results from any polling station may not be declared invalid and the Court may not declare that any person, who is returned as elected, is not duly elected on grounds of—

- (a) any failure to comply with the time prescribed in this Act;
- (b) any omission or irregularity in filling up a form prescribed by or under this Act (other than a ballot paper);

- (c) any defect or invalidity in the appointment of an election official or polling or counting agent, or any failure by any such person to sign or make a declaration; or
- (d) any absence of, or mistake, omission or breach of duty by, an election official, whether before, during or after the polling, if the Court is satisfied that the failure, omission, irregularity, defect, invalidity, absence, mistake, breach, or illegal or corrupt practice did not affect the result of the election, and that the election was conducted in a manner substantially in accordance with the provisions of the Constitution and this Act.

Voiding election for corrupt or illegal practices

129.—(1) If the Court finds that a person to whom a seat was awarded, or some other person with the knowledge and consent of the person to whom the seat was awarded, has committed or has attempted to commit a corrupt practice, the award of the seat to that person must be declared void.

(2) The Court may not declare that any person to whom a seat was awarded should not have had the seat awarded, or declare any election to be void—

- (a) on the ground of any illegal practice committed by a person other than the person to whom the seat was awarded and without the knowledge and consent of the person; or
- (b) on the ground of any illegal practice other than a corrupt practice, unless the Court is satisfied that the result of the election was likely to be affected, and that it is just that there should be a declaration that the seat should not have been awarded to that person, or that the election should be declared void.

(3) A finding by the Court in respect of any conduct or matter does not bar or prejudice any prosecution for an illegal practice in respect of the same conduct or matter.

Repeat polling

130.—(1) If the Court declares the results in one or more polling stations to be invalid, the entire election must not be voided.

(2) Repeat polling is to be ordered by the Court for those polling stations where the results were voided if the results in those polling stations could affect the overall results of the election.

(3) If it is determined by the Court that the overall election results could not be affected by any repeat polling in those polling stations in which results were invalidated, the Court may not order repeat polling.

(4) Any repeat polling ordered by the court under subsection (2) must take place within 60 days of the decision of the Court under the supervision of the Supervisor.

Effect of Court decision

131. Effect must be given to decisions of the Court as follows—

- (a) if any person returned is declared not to have been duly elected, the person ceases to be a member of Parliament;
